SATURDAY SERENADE
"If I can have your attention for just a minute," as "Sandy" sometime says.

There's going to be a bowlers' jamboree dance Saturday night at the I. O. O. F. hall.

This dance is given by the bowling association with the idea that profits on the evening will be devoted to the fund which is being raised to send an El Dorado County team to compete in the American Bowling Congress, opening in March at Columbus, O.

So, you dancers who like to bowl, and you bowlers who like to dance, and all of the folks who would like to support this activity, can do so by patronizing the dance.

FORTY NINERS

Tonight we have the fifth place Max Baers lining up against the fourth place Sid's Honeys, and the second place Leo Burgers opposing the sixth place American Legion, and the first place Eagles arguing with the third place Murrys.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Looking over the score sheets, we don't see a higher series than 468 and we don't see a higher game than 179. These two scores belong to Ovidia Le Bourveau, who bowled fifth for the Raffles in their session with Lewis & Lewis. The Raffles took two of the series. Score:

PIONEER QUADRILLE DANCES AT EPISCOPAL BAZAAR ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The annual bazaar of the Church of Our Saviour is in progress this afternoon and this evening at the guild hall of the church, and will conclude with an entertainment program this evening which has been arranged by the Rev. and Mrs. Edwin J. Castledine.

One of the features of the entertainment program will be an exhibition appearance by the Pioneer Quadrille Club.

The bazaar includes various booths in which a variety of fancy work, foods, candies and other items made by lady members and friends of the church, are offered for sale.

George Sutley was a visitor in the county seat on Friday from Fairplay.

NAZIS PRESS VICHY FOR SEA BASE

Hitler Said To Have Been Granted Use Of Tunisia In Parley With Petain

By UNITED PRESS
Russian and British sources reported today Marshal Henri Philippe Petain has agreed to permit Germany to use one or more of France's North African bases for operations against Great Britain.

According to the Russian reports, emanating from Turkey, Petain at his conference Monday with Field Marshal Hermann Goering gave Germany permission to use Tunisia, adjoining Italian Libya.

The official Russian news agency Tass, quoting Turkish advices said that all preparations had been made for use of Tunis as an Axis base and that Italian reinforcements for the Libyan front already were arriving there.

Advices from continental Europe to the United Press said Goering in his talk with Petain has especially sought French aid in breaking the British blockade in the Mediterranean and Atlantic, and French support against an alleged "American menace" to Africa.

These advices said Petain had refused the French fleet for anything except defense of the French empire and protection of French shipping.

Adolf Hitler apparently ordered Goering to make sure that France would either defend its African empire against "a possible American invasion" or permit the Axis to "assist it in defending African ports," according to the advices.

Vichy reported that Petain had sought to obtain relaxation of the armistice limits on the strength of the French fighting forces so that it might defend its African territory itself.

The Vichy dispatch said Goering pressed Petain for an assurance that French African territory would be quite safe against "the Anglo-American menace." Petain was quoted as replying:

"We want to defend our empire but give us means to do so. Permit us to rearm."

It was said Petain received no encouragement.

Rites Saturday For W. Marks

Funeral Services Will Held At 2 O'Clock At Memory Chapel

The funeral services for Worthy Marks, who died on Wednesday, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Memory Chapel. Interment will be at Union Cemetery.

Mr. Marks, native of Placerville, was for nearly twenty years in the real estate and insurance business at Sacramento and had returned to Placerville about two months before his passing, owing to failing health.

A son of the late Emma A. and Watson Marks, Mr. Marks was a nephew of Henry Marks, of this city.

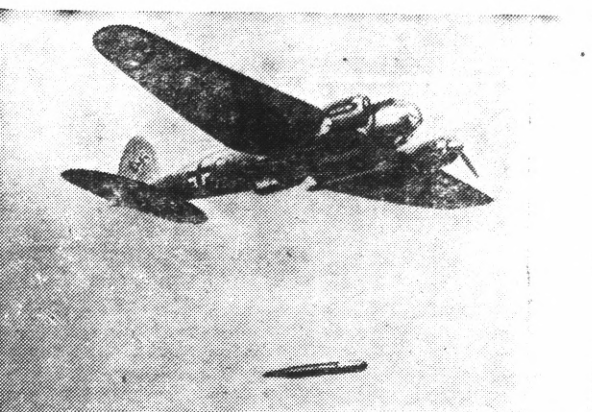

He was a brother of Roy Marks, of Missouri Flat, and Florence Rayburn, of Placerville and a half brother of Clarence Chalder, of this city.

In addition to three nephews and three nieces, Mr. Marks is survived by the following cousins, Mrs. Maude Patterson, Grace Marks, Mrs. Metta Tucker, Margaret Kern and Mrs. Elsie Hall, of Placerville; and Ada Morton, of Napa; Elrena Wakefield, of Oakland, and Hattie Hite, of Crockett.

They are financing one of the most thoroughly organized programs of medical research ever launched against a specific disease.

TOKYO POLICY CONTINUES TO REFLECT WAR DEVELOPMENTS

Official Japanese Spokesman Declares "Big Misunderstanding" Of Japanese Policy In Far East Is Held By U. S.

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor

War threats in the Pacific reached another crisis today with Japanese spokesmen suggesting that a peace formula might yet be found despite new threats of armed action in the South Seas.

A moderate attitude indicating that only a "big misunderstanding" of Japanese policy in the Far East prevented progress toward an understanding with the United States was taken at Tokyo by the official spokesman, Tomokazu Hori, who denied Washington's charges that a despotic new order was planned in East Asia and that unwarranted numbers of Japanese troops had been concentrated in French Indo-China.

That viewpoint was presented, significantly, at a time when the Red army reported continued success against the Axis forces on the eastern front and only a few hours before Japanese envoys met with U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull at Washington.

The Far Eastern war of nerves still was responding indirectly to war developments on the Russian and Libyan fronts. In Libya, the British acknowledged loss of Gambut but said that three Axis attacks on Ed Duda—south of Tobruk—had been repulsed although the Germans made some slight gain. The British appeared to be taking the offensive in Libya again after a period of re-organization of armored units.

For the time being, however, the Far East dominated war developments, with Tokyo swinging away from extreme belligerency.

On the Russian front the gravest threat to the Soviets appeared to be at Dditrov, 50 miles north of the capital, where the Germans advanced to the big Moscow water reservoir. Russian accounts were not specific but it appeared the reservoir is now in German hands.

3 ESCAPE SERIOUS HURTS IN UNUSUAL HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Three men escaped serious injury Thursday evening in an unusual highway accident on U. S. Route 50 just west of the Webber Creek bridge.

Bud Melbye and Jess Leitenberger, of the Camino Truck Service, were returning from Sacramento with a truck load of grain, feed and supplies when "something went wrong with the front end."

Whatever it was, they report the truck went end for end and then rolled sideways over and over a distance of several yards down the hill toward the bridge.

At about the same time, a truck loaded with lumber from the Sacramento Box Company was proceeding the other way on the road, and smashed into the load which had been dumped from the other truck.

The force of the impact was sufficient to throw the load forward, smashing through the cab, and the front end of the lumber truck was caved in by the crash. The driver, whose name was not learned by Melbye and Leitenberger reported bumps on their heads.

DRUNKEN DRIVING TRIAL IN CITY COURT ON DECEMBER 15

Will Kelly, 36, charged with drunken driving, is at liberty on bail of $200 pending a jury trial set for December 15th in the city court.

Kelly was arrested Wednesday night by City Officer Earl McCall and was admitted to bail Thursday morning in the hearing in which the jury trial was set.

Attorney C. W. Pearson is representing Mr. Kelly.

Mrs. Mary E. Green Sues For Reno Divorce

DOUBT RISES PLANE FELL NEAR KYBURZ

Army Officials Report Ship May Have Had Fuel For Two Hours Of Flight

The whereabouts of Aviation Cadet Stephen Grundy and his Army training ship from the Stockton flying field remained an unanswered question Friday noon.

A ground and air search of the Silver Fork basin, in which the plane was presumed to have made a crash landing late Wednesday, was made on Thursday without trace of the ship.

Thursday night it was announced that a wider area would be combed by air on Friday and that a ground crew would be directed to the plane, should it be sighted from the air.

Up to noon Friday there was no report of the ship having been located.

Possibility that the plane, despite the opinion of those who saw it that it "must have crashed" in the Silver Fork basin, could have continued southward into Amador or even into Calaveras County was seen in the report quoting officers from the Stockton airport to the effect that, when last seen, the ship could have had fuel for thirty minutes to two hours of flight.

Whether the ship might continue to fly so long as the fuel supply lasted might be governed, it was noted, by the question of the pilot's ability to control himself and his plane, knowing he was "lost" from the other two ships of his formation.

Cougar Casabans Play Tonight

Nevada City A And B Quints Invade Local Lair This Evening

Cougar basketballers take the floor tonight for the second of their inter-school practice games in preparation for the opening of the Mother Lode League season.

Their opponents are the A and B fives of Nevada City high school, both highly touted and calculated to create plenty of opposition.

In their first games of the year last week, the Cougar A five won from Folsom 29 to 18 and the B team lost, 34 to 22.

With a week more of practice, it is believed that the Cougars will prove a good match for the Nevada Cityans.

Saturday night, the Cougar A and B fives go to Auburn for another non-league roundup with the Placer Union high school.

The Cougar C team is idle, as far as games are concerned, until they go to Folsom December 19th.

LAKE VALLEY TRUCK DRIVER SCORED BY JUDGE AS PROBATION ON GUILTY PLEA IN DEATH OF FOUR IS DENIED

Willis E. Lampton, 31, Lake Tahoe truck driver whose vehicle killed four persons on Highway 99 near Stockton July 28th, was sentenced to San Quentin Prison by Superior Judge D. M. Young to the accompaniment of a scathing lecture according to a report from the San Joaquin center.

Judge Young, in denying Lampton's prayer for probation after the defendant pleaded guilty of manslaughter, declared:

"If I should let this man off lightly, I would feel that I was a party to every drunken driving crime that might happen here in future. It would make others feel encouraged to get drunk, have a good time and take a chance, fig-

LEGISLATORS VISIT RIVER DAM SITES

Interim Committee Spends Day On Inspection Of Proposed Locations

SACRAMENTO, (U)—The joint legislative interim committee on water problems today visited proposed dam sites on the American river after hearing testimony on two new phases of its study—soil surveys as related to reclamation and irrigation needs and southern California beach protection.

The group, headed by Sen. Bradford S. Crittenden, Stockton, will return to Sacramento tonight. Saturday members were scheduled to inspect the Delta cross channel, upper Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta area and Contra Costa canal before proceeding to Stockton.

Frank W. Clark, state director of public works, last night emphasized importance of American river development before the committee asserting "the next step in the state water plan" should be taken there. Assemblyman John Edward Cain, Sacramento, spoke on American river flood control needs while Assemblyman Earl Desmond, Sacramento, emphasized need for flood control on the Cosumnes river.

On the matter of the suggested American River development, the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce has addressed the following letter to Governor Olson, the state park commission, the national park commission and others, clarifying its stand in opposition to a dam at Coloma:

"Gentlemen: The directors of the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce have instructed me to notify the State Park Commission of the action taken at their meeting held on Monday, November 24, 1941.

"The Board of Directors went unanimously on record as follows: 'We oppose the construction of any proposed dam or other project that will threaten the existence of the site of Sutter's Mill in the town of Coloma, El Dorado County where James W. Marshall made his momentous gold discovery on January 24, 1848.

"We do not oppose the construction of a proposed dam on the South (Continued on Page Three)

W. E. Christian Rites Saturday

Services At 3 O'Clock At Episcopal Church, Interment Union Cemetery

The funeral services for W. E. Christian will be held at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the Church of Our Saviour. The Rev. Edwin Castledine will officiate. Interment will be at Union Cemetery.

This is according to arrangements announced definitely on Friday by the Dillingham mortuary.

Mr. Christian, throughout his life prominently connected with many of the major mines of the county, passed away early Thursday following a period of several months of declining health.

Most recently he had been superintendent of the Kelsey mine of the California-Aztec Gold Mining Company, from which work he retired last July in the hope that rest might improve his condition.

Native of El Dorado and a lifelong resident of this county, Mr. Christian was a member of Morning Star Lodge of Odd Fellows, Zeta Encampment No. 5, and Placerville Eagles.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Christian, and four children, Mrs. Anita Chappell, of Placerville; Mrs. Ethel Schneider, of Santa Barbara; Ed Christian, of Berkeley, and William Christian, of Placerville; by five grandchildren; by a sister, Mrs. E. K. Fowler, and a brother, Ed Christian, of this city, and by a niece and a nephew.

A. H. Turnbo has brought suit for divorce from Cora Turnbo, charging cruelty. Papers on file on Friday state the couple wed at Carson City August 12, 1930, and separated July 8, 1939. They have two children whose care and custody the plaintiff prays.

Justice of the Peace Charles A. Rasmussen was a caller from Lotus on Friday.

"THE MANDARIN HOUSE MURDERS"
by Van Wyck Mason

CHAPTER IX

"Two days ago Louis Larousse and me came down river to meet him and to make things easier Louis took a room near Adams's as he could."

"And you arranged an interview for tonight?"

"Sure—I don't believe in lettin' moss grow on deals like this. Date was for eleven-thirty—Adams said he'd another date he must keep first."

"He seems to have kept it. Was North's grim comment. 'And then what?'"

"Like you know, I phoned him. I noticed he sounded kind of upset and scared, but he wouldn't admit it. That's why I showed up ahead of time. Big, knobby hands were flung wide apart. 'There you have it, Cap, look, stock and barrel.'"

"In your conversation with Adams did he make any mention of the secret's nature?"

"Not in so many words. He did let on, though, that it was more important commercially than from a military angle."

"Did you tell him you thought he sounded scared?"

"Yeh. Said he'd better be careful. Spurr grinned wolfishly. 'But Adams said he wasn't worrying, because he just couldn't be robbed.'"

"What do you mean?"

"Because the whole business was in his head."

"In his head, eh?" Someone far duller than Captain North would have perceived a subtle change in Major Kilgour's manner.

"Yep—in his head." Spurr pulled out a very long cigarette of Russian pattern and tapped it against a case of heavy gold.

"That's a fine case," pleasantly observed Kilgour.

"Yeh, the old marshal slipped it to me after my guns knocked the daylight out of Sunhwa. Say, Cap, you ought to have been along. Had the time of my young life. Boy! We simply massacred them Communists."

"No doubt." North brought the speaker back to his original subject. "You seemed quite surprised to see Miss Gallian."

"I was. Couldn't quite place her. 'You recognized her?'"

"You knew this Daisy person?" Kilgour suggested mildly.

"Yeh? No. Bein' a number one 'master' she came too high for poor little Dave. Only saw Daisy once in Hong Kong, about three years ago."

"Why did Daisy leave the China coast?"

"glinted in a brief shrug. 'But my bet is she does; even if she did act up a tree about Adams takin' a powder.'"

"In that case a talk with Marya Gallian may be enlightening. Coming, Bruce?"

"No. I'll take my turn later—Think I'll chat with our friend the Colonel."

Inwardly thankful, North made no further attempt at persuasion. If the British Intelligence man decided to approach the problem through Spurr—well, it was just as well.

"Hey, Cap, better watch your step with that joy baby if she turns on the old S. A." Colonel Spurr's loose smile was not pretty.

"Thanks for the tip. By the bye, Bruce, you might see if you can learn anything from the newspaper." North indicated the discarded North China Daily News.

"But it's two weeks old?"

"Doesn't that make it all the more interesting?"

North's hand was actually closing over the cold brass door-knob of the room in which Chao Ku and Marya Gallian were waiting when a voice, menacing as a leveled pistol, warned, "Stand still!"

"North knew better than to disobey. Hostile eyes were drilling holes into his shoulder blades. Promptly he oriented the deadly undertone as coming from a door directly at his back.

"In his head, eh?"

"No."

"Then turn around, raise your hands and come in here."

Silently the door of a perfectly dark room swung open to shut again once North had crossed the threshold. Simultaneously a flashlight blazed into his eyes, making any reconnaissance simply out of the question.

"What the devil is this?" the man from G-2 demanded in a hoarse whisper. "Whoever you are, you've got the wrong man."

"Be quiet or I shoot, verstehtes?" Then in guttural German. "All right, Johann, see if he has a pistol." Grinding mental teeth, Hugh North perforce endured a search which ended when the second man pulled a compact little .32 from his waist leather holster adjusted beneath his left arm.

"I have it, Kurt."

"Gut. Now, mein Herr, these questions you must answer. Where is Luther Adams gone? A strong reek of onions offended North's nostrils as he merely blinked into the flashlight.

"Answer me!"

"I don't know," he muttered and tried to grasp the significance of this deadly ambush. He must be careful and make no mistake. No matter what happened Luther Adams could not be left at large. Suppose the new process fell into the hands of certain nations who had an axe to grind with the world?

"We will see about that later."

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK (AP)—A bunch of the boys who shall be nameless were whooping it up in a mild sort of way and toward the end of the evening one of them said: "Well, just to start an argument, what single thing in sports gives you the biggest thrill? I mean something that really sends the shivers up and down the spine?"

The question couldn't have been asked before a better group, made up entirely of sports writers and red-hot fans. Among them they had traveled hundreds of thousands of miles for years to watch all kinds of sports. They had seen the picture from end to end. And they were almost killed in the rush to make their choices.

"You got to give it to college football," one man said. "That's where the thrills are. Now you take a home game that Wisconsin plays. It does something to you to see that big Wisconsin band start the parade with everybody blowing their lungs out on that swell marching song, 'On Wisconsin.'"

"Where did you go to school?" inquired a cynic.

"Wisconsin," said the gent sheepishly.

Another indignant gentleman demanded the floor: "Take all the football teams in the country, college and pro, and throw 'em out that window over there. Here's the one that will give me a kick as long as I live. They're parading to the post for the Kentucky Derby and all of a sudden the band starts giving out with 'My Old Kentucky Home.' And after the first few bars the crowd stands up and starts humming it kind of soft and some of the gals are singing it. Brother, you can't match it. A wooden Indian would get a belt out of that."

"Seems like we got this thing all tangled up with bands and music, but the truth of it is that once a year I get a shivery spine out of the world series. It's about five minutes before the start of the first game when the band plays the Star Spangled Banner. There are a couple of pitchers—one of 'em usually is Red Ruffing of the Yankees—standing out there facing the flag with their caps off. And the umpires are at attention and the rest of the players are lined up bareheaded in front of the dugouts. You can hear a pin drop then. I know 'cause I dropped one a couple of years ago to see."

A little fellow interrupted: "You don't have to have a band to give me a belt. What's wrong with the last round of a national open golf championship when a guy is coming up the stretch needing par on the last four holes to tie or win. Like Gene Sarazen did out at Cleveland a while back."

Remember when he came up to the green—I think it was the 17th—and needed to get down a 40 foot putt? Gene swaggered up to that putt with that funny little walk of his and didn't even bother to line it up. He just hit it. Maybe it took four or five seconds for that ball to get across the green and plunk into the cup. It's a good thing it wasn't a longer time because everybody, me included, was holding his breath and we would all have been dead."

The last man spoke: "It's an outdoor fight. You got about 50,000 people there sitting in the darkness and the cigarettes look like lightning bugs. The champ sits in his corner, dead panned as usual and Services, 11 a. m. Sunday School 9:30 a. m. Wednesday evening Testimonial Meeting 8 p. m.

The reading room at the church building is open Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock.

"God the Only Cause and Creator" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, December 7, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text will be: "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power: for thou hast pleased all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created." (Revelation 4: 11).

Other Bible citations will include: "To whom will ye liken me, and make me equal, and compare me that we may be like? Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me." (Isaiah 46: 5, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is. All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle. Love." (p. 275).

Christian Love

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 30 is Lev. 19:17, 18, 33, 34; Deut. 6:4, 5; Matt. 22:35-38; John 3:16; 13:34, 35; I Cor. 13, the Golden Text being I John 4:19, "We love, because He first loved us.")

LOVE, CHRISTIAN love, is our theme for today. It is a subject that runs through the whole Bible, from the Old to the New Testament, and our references are, in consequence, taken from both.

In Leviticus, the third book in the Bible, the Lord commands the people of Israel, through Moses, as they wandered in the wilderness seeking their new home which God had promised them:

"Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart: thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbor, and not suffer sin upon him."

"Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. I am the Lord."

These words were written in the book of Leviticus back in 1400 or 1500 B. C., and how applicable they are to us today. Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart; thou shalt not bear any grudge; thou shalt not avenge; but shalt love thy neighbor.

Loving Strangers

If a stranger dwell among you, you shall love him as thyself, for ye, too, were once strangers in a strange land, we read in Lev. 19:33, 34. Those who profess to be Christians and who yet speak or act scornfully about "foreigners," how can they reconcile their attitude to the words of the Holy Book in which they profess to believe and whose teachings they pledge themselves to follow? To the Jews of that time all who were not of their race were "strangers."

In Deuteronomy, the "book of the law," it is written, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." Next, in St. Matthew, we read about the Pharisees who were trying to trick Jesus so that they might have an excuse to take him captive. We have had this story recently, so will not dwell upon it. It is the narration of the Pharisee lawyer who asked Jesus what was the great commandment in the law? And Jesus answered:

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind."

Why should we love God? Because He "so loved the world that

He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Now our lesson takes us to the feast of the Passover, which Jesus passed with His disciples in that upper room. It was His last night with those He so loved on earth. Among the many things He told His friends that night was this:

"A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another, as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."

"By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

Real Christianity
That seems the height of real Christianity: to love one another, as the Master said. Not the man of wrath, of stern rules uttering threats is a follower of Jesus, but ye shall know true disciples because they manifest love to anyone, righteous and sinful. Who wins the most souls to the gentle Master, think you?

In his letter to the Corinthians St. Paul sums this lesson up in one of the most beautiful chapters in the whole Bible. We usually think of Paul as a stern, austere man, but this chapter would disprove that theory, even if other writings of his did not.

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not love, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal." Not the gifted orator, but the man of love, is exalted. Words mean little but noise, unless they are followed by deeds of goodness.

The man that is wise in worldly things, who can prophesy, who has all worldly knowledge at his finger tips, but has not love, is nothing. St. Paul writes. Even charity without the love of the heart, or martyrdom, will avail us nothing.

Love "suffereth long and is kind; envieth not; vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up; doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

"Rejoiceth not in wickedness, but in the truth."

Love "beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things." It never fails.

"And now abideth faith, hope, love; but the greatest of these is Love."

Let us remember this, all we who aspire to follow the loving Christ. If we achieve these two things, love to God and Man, surely we will go far toward the "Kingdom of God."

Hand Lotion In Yule
Pack Will Please

Beauty has a hand in Christmas giving and a pretty practical hand it is. Novelty gifts which look like frivolous bits of fluff and nonsense are to be found aplenty and may bring forth many a squeal of delight. But one can almost guarantee you a hug and a kiss from every girl in your household, be it Mom, Sis or Auntie, if among her gifts beneath the Christmas tree you place a supply of a hand cosmetic. There is not a woman alive who does not adore luxurious cosmetic accessories.

Nursery Items Always
Appropriate Gifts
Nursery supplies to make Baby's first days on earth more enjoyable include a crib or bassinet, a bath-inette, a bath set, a nursery basket, a mattress, a pillow, a crib net, a comb and brush set, a thermometer, a hot water bottle and a basket fastener.

POPULAR TOYS
Soft fluffy cats and elephants are among the most popular of the stuffed toys.

Proposed Dam Sites Visited

Fork of the American River if the site for such dam can be so located that the water thus impounded will not interfere with the free public access to the gold discovery site.

"The above action was taken as a result of recent publicity given the fact that a series of power dams is in contemplation of construction and that it is proposed that one of these dams be built on the South Fork of the American River at Coloma. Such a dam would flood the town of Coloma and vicinity and completely destroy the Sutter's Mill site.

"It is believed that the destruction of this historic community would be a serious loss both to the State of California and the nation.

"The citizens of El Dorado County feel that the preservation and development of the discovery site by the State of California has been already too long delayed.

"This site is still in the hands of private ownership and immediate steps should be taken either by the State of California or the National Park Commission to make this historic shrine accessible and attractive to the citizens of the United States."

BUILDING LOGS ENCOURAGE CREATIVE POWERS IN CHILDREN

A new type of building log which has proved immensely popular in recent years enables the boy to construct buildings he actually has seen as well as develop his own creative powers.

The builder may start by erecting the log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born and, with the attention of the nation focused upon national defense, he next might build any of several early American forts.

A design book accompanies each set of logs.

The building logs are of a special type with an interlocking device which holds the structure securely together. And there are no metal pieces to break or become rusty.

Long Torso Dresses Win Fashion Call

Long torso dresses are a new and fashionable trend in dresses for girls this holiday season, unquestionably smartest with the new rounded natural shoulder line and Dolman sleeves. The classic tailored shirt-waist gains new interest in flat yokes, rounded shoulders and deep armholes. This staple type is new with detachable dummies.

Tree Ornaments Use Cellophane

And Most Of New Pretties Are American-Made And Novelty This Year

The splendor of American Christmas trees, this year, will depend mostly on American made ornaments and designers in this country have produced an array of novelties.

There is such a wide variety of decorations made of cellophane that the entire tree may be trimmed with these modern decorations.

Honeycomb bells and balls of red film are sparkling new versions of the expanding tissue ornaments. Other bells are made of laminated film in several colors.

Garlands to hang in festoons come in red, blue and green, some combining tinsel.

Ornaments fabricated from transparent drinking straws include new icicles as well as the familiar pom-poms. These icicles are formed by wiring and flattening them into spiral shape. They are available in assorted colors with silver stripes.

Amusing figures may be created with these icicles, using marshmallows for heads and bits of colored tape for the features. A Santa Claus of crown face may be topped with an icicle hat. Santa's beard and a moustache easily are applied with cotton. A miniature angel can be made with an icicle for the body, wings of silver cardboard and a halo of tinsel. For each of the arms, use a row of tiny mint candies, enclosed in transparent wrapping.

PACKAGE OF HOME-MADE FUDGE MAY BE DONE UP CLEVERLY

Pieces of toothsome fudge, when arranged in triangle shape, may be wrapped and decorated to look like a glittering Christmas tree.

Lay the candy on a corrugated cardboard base, cover with clear film and edge with a blue and silver garland made of the film and tinsel. Wrap again and bind edges with silver tape. Top with a pom-pom fashioned from the garland.

Another way to make fudge look very Christmasy calls for an oblong package. Wrap the candy on a cardboard foundation, then lay a piece of amber film under a larger piece of clear wrapping applied with a holiday design. Pleat the corners so that they flare out and tie the ribbon around the bottom edge of the package, finishing with a bow.

A ten cent glass or wax boot filled with small candies may be ornamented with flares made from a few square pieces of red and blue cellophane. Insert small mint candy in the center of the square and twist the wrapping to hold the candy firmly. The flares then are tied easily to the instep of the boot with ribbon of the film.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN BUSINESS

FINAL FLING? — On comes the Christmas shopping season, with merchants and Commerce Department experts alike predicting record-breaking volume, — possibly touching $5,000,000,000. All this in spite of taxes, the spectre of inflation, other "go slow" signs.

The expected splurge may have something of the old "eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow—" philosophy in it, in view of the fact that after the holidays we'll have turned the calendar corner and be actually in that tax-battered year of 1942. But at any rate there seems to be little awareness of that in the current shopping mood. Store shelves are abundantly stocked for a whopping holiday season, too, in spite of official curtailments that have been applied, month after month, to one consumer line after another.

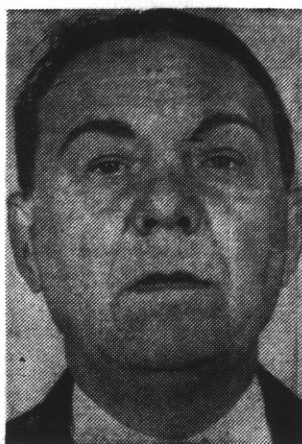

WASHINGTON—Latest production cut ordered by OPM — 10 per cent, on vacuum cleaners—reflects a general policy of being guided by the ratio of "workers per ton of material needed" in regulating the flow of strategic materials to non-defense industries. It was explained that the unit reduction ordered was relatively low compared to other industries because that industry employs about 850 workers for every thousand tons of steel used in a year's time. In the refrigerator industry, on the other hand, the ratio is only 100 workers per 1,000 tons, and in washing machines it's 140. Rep. Doughton (North Carolina), chairman of the House ways and means committee, is said to be leading those legislators "determined to block any action on treasury suggestions for new taxes" until it's seen what can be done about trimming a billion and a half, or more, of non-defense appropriations from the budget coming up in January.

CONTRAST—Those sponge-rubber vibration dampers used to cushion factory machines weighing several tons are now aiding the delicate art of photographing minute bacteriological specimens. A leading nose and throat specialist, whose laboratory is only 20 feet from railroad tracks, found accurate photographing of bacteria impossible because of the train vibrations. The problem was solved, reports the B. F. Goodrich company, by construction of piers sunk into the ground and using sponge rubber in combination with cork and concrete. The camera's magnifying ratio is 1,000 to 1. Most spectacular job done by vibro-insulators in easing "industrial fatigue" was in the New York City garment district. There, in one 24-block area, thousands of huge sewing machines hum away, turning out 90 per cent of the country's ready-to-wear clothing. Increases of 50 per cent in production efficiency were reported after the installation of vibro-insulators.

BITS O'BUSINESS—No surprise is the report that October's sales of new autos and trucks were down 36 per cent below October of 1940—but at that October was 41 per cent ahead of September (this year). On the "employees per ton" argument watchmakers base their hopes for brass and steel-nickel supplies. They say they can keep 10,000 employees busy making two million domestic jeweled watches, with less metal (20 tons) than goes into one big tank. Cotton goods may be scarce next year, though stores are well stocked now. The Army needs a lot of cotton—for tents, uniforms, tire cord, wire insulation, sandbags, gun and machinery hoods, etc.—and is buying 30 per cent of this year's total production. As in the case of oil and wool there's no lack of raw material, but a lack of machinery to make finished cloth. Westinghouse, a pioneer 25 years ago in work that led to development of commercial broadcasting, plans to become active again in the broad field of radio.

STRIKE SILENCER — While strikes and varied industrial crises have crowded the headlines on a par with the war, a non-profit organization known as the American Arbitration Association has quietly wrestled successfully with many of the strikes and settled them minus fanfare. Cornelius V. Whitney, president of the Association, reports that in the first eight months of 1941, the New York headquarters of the organization alone disposed of 174 labor-industry cases, many of which involved possible stoppage of defense contracts. These cases represented plants and workers in 18 cities and 10 states, Whitney said. The association, which has regional offices in 31 cities and expert arbitrators on its panels in other areas, succeeded recently in settling

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—Fortified oleomargarine, reinforced with Vitamin A and D... Revolving doors equipped with "electric-eye" mechanism... For beauty shops, a new combination radio receiver and hair drier—so the patron can get her own private program over the air-waves and also over the hair-waves, for the music comes out right in her hair, along with the warm air... The tiniest thing yet in midjet transformers, for use in electric hearing aids, is one that measures 7/16 by 7/16 by 3/4 inches.

Novelty In Gloves Adds Value To The Gift

Gloves for gifts. There is an idea which everyone will vote for. Of course, it is not a new idea but there are plenty of new styles in gloves to back it up, for the American leather glove manufacturers certainly have put all their ingenuity to work for good old Santa Claus this year. And in giving gloves, consider giving—not a plain slip on which is the kind of glove every woman buys first for herself, but gloves with a touch of novelty—either in cut, trimming or color—in short, a glove she would love to have in her wardrobe but is not so apt to buy for herself.

FRUIT CENTERPIECES ARE APPROPRIATE FOR CHRISTMAS TABLE

Fruit centerpieces are as appropriate at Christmas as at Thanksgiving or Halloween time. An unusual combination of this type has a whole fresh pineapple as a centerpiece. Red and green peppers, rosy apples, Tokay grapes, raw cranberries and bananas are banded around the upright pineapple in the middle of a long brass tray.

MAKES OWN YARN SANDERSVILLE, Miss. (UP)—Mrs. Jack Rushton, 82-year-old widow, knits socks for her three grandsons in the army from cotton thread drawn out on an instrument familiar many wars ago—a big spinning wheel.

COLLARLESS NECKLINES The classic shirtwaist and coat styles with their tailored necklines depart occasionally from the traditional turnback collar to sport the collarless cardigan neckline.

THE Book Mark

By JANE VOILES
Thomas Russell Ybarra whose book "Young Man of Caracas" has found special favor in California, has been addressing California audiences on "The Human Factor in Pan American Relations." Two vital factors are involved in our relations with Latin America at present; one is the necessity for promoting Latin American trade, the other, the necessity for safeguarding our national defense.

Mr. Ybarra freshens the audience's mind on Latin American geography without being too statistical. There are 20 Latin American republics, 17 of these are on the mainland, three are island republics. In 18 of these republics, Spanish is spoken, French is spoken in one—the island of Haiti, and Portuguese in Brazil which is the largest and the most populous of the Latin American countries. If you remember your South American map, you'll recall that Brazil is bigger than the United States.

The three most important Republics are the "A-B-Cs" or Argentina, Brazil and Chile. In Argentina the United States is not popular, says Mr. Ybarra. Opposition to the United States in the Pan American League was centered in the Argentine delegation. The reason for this is because we will not buy Argentine wheat, Argentina has its Nazi problem, however, the British are well entrenched in this republic as they own most of the railroads. Buenos Aires, a city of two and a half million is a blend of Paris and Chicago.

Brazil is one of our best friends. We are Brazil's best customer, buying most of its coffee. Moreover we have made available millions of American dollars for its development. Brazil has its worries just now. One of them is its nearness to the African coast, the other its large German population. Unlike the fiery Spaniards, the Brazilians are easy going people. The leisurely life led in that incredibly beautiful city of Rio can scarcely be imagined by haste-driven Americans.

That long narrow ribbon of land which Chile has a north country that is bleak desert but central and southern Chile are a fertile paradise. Many of the vast fruit orchards are owned by Teutons. While they belong to the Germany of Goethe and Schiller more than to the Germany of Hitler, yet in an emergency, it is hard to estimate what they would do.

Keystone of our national defense is the Panama Canal. The Canal Zone is operated by American officers and garrisoned by American troops. Only the other day, the pro-Nazi president of Panama was ousted, all of which gives us something to think about in our defense problem.

Venezuela presents a strange picture. American interests have helped to make Venezuela third in the world's oil production, the United States being first and Soviet Russia, second. Yet Venezuelan oil goes to Europe.

Strategically important to the United States is Mexico yet in some way Mexico seems remote from us.

Perhaps, says Mr. Ybarra, the reason that Mexicans and Americans do not quite hit it off is because the Mexicans have never forgotten the Mexican war.

Mr. Ybarra believes that we think too much of profit and too little of friendship in our relations with the Latin American countries. "Every man has his own way of killing fleas" is a popular Latin American proverb. They incline to think that we kill ours too brusquely, and too tactlessly. Human beings can get along without economics and politics but politics and economics can not get along without human beings. It is the human approach to Latin America that will help solve our problem. However, if Germany should win the present war, we will have to assert ourselves in Latin America. We will have to make it clear that we do not want to use our strength but make it clear that we are strong. Because if we do not some other nation will.

RED CROSS AIDS ARMY MORALE

Red Cross workers are on the job in all Army and Navy camps and stations throughout the country to assist in the important task of maintaining morale. Above, as Army flier leaves unfinished personal matters for the Red Cross field director to take care of while he embarks on an emergency flight across country. The Red Cross is the official means of communication between service men and their families back home.

CALIFORNIA FARM PARADE

The food stamp program that distributes surplus farm products to low-income families has been extended to serve a total of close to 4,000,000 persons. The program is in operation in an area containing more than half the nation's entire population.

The plan was first tried in a few of the larger cities to supplement the work of relief agencies. Since then it has spread to include 18 entire states and distributes more than $9,000,000 worth of surplus farm products each month.

Under the plan, families on relief receive a number of free food stamps with which they can purchase only items designated as surplus.

The defense boom has removed the surplus problem on a number of farm products but the plan continues to function as before. Items of high food value and containing essential vitamins are put on the stamp list whenever practical to improve the nutrition of low income families.

The national dairy council met in Chicago Wednesday to discuss the effects of the defense effort of the dairy industry. Specialized attention being given to the increased demand for certain specialized types of dairy products.

Lend-lease shipments have taken huge quantities of dried and evaporated milk products. Millions of pounds of cheese also have been sent. This new market for dairy products has caused a rapid expansion in those lines of the dairy industry.

In many communities of the dairy regions, farmers who used to market their milk or cream through butter making creameries now are selling to cheese factories and milk drying plants, and frequently at better prices.

The southern citrus fruit season is in full swing. Picking is going ahead at a rapid pace. The crop is heavy this year and quality is above average.

National Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce, has established a new laboratory in which to test sandbags for the Army.

Greatly increased activity on the inland waterways of the United States is reported by the Department of Commerce.

Hank Greenberg Paid Off, Released By Army

FORT CUSTER, Mich., (UP)—Sgt. Hank Greenberg rolled out of a bunk in the barracks of an anti-tank battery at Fort Custer to resume his civilian role as the Detroit Tigers' $55,000 a year outfielder. He was discharged because he was over 28.

Greenberg was to have been released Monday but his discharge was postponed because the finance officer wasn't ready with his final army paycheck—$60.

SAVES PUNCH

SEATTLE (UP)—The British humor magazine, Punch, is observing its 100th birthday this year, and Harold Swan, British consul in Seattle, feels a personal interest in the observance. He has a copy of each issue since the first one appeared in 1841.

If you use dark face powder, don't let the neckline of your dress become soiled and neglect to have it cleaned. A stain that is difficult to remove will be the result if you do.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT

- Cleaner
- No Waste

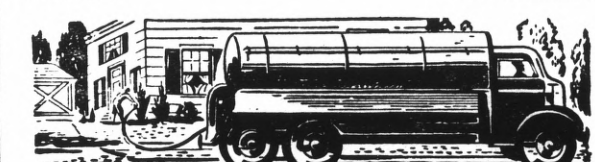

- Economical
- Convenient

Once you've known the conveniences of fuel oil you'll never want to switch to any other method of heating your home! You regulate the temperature from your easy chair — no coal to shovel, no ashes to take out. It's cleaner — keeps curtains and walls fresher. There is no waste coal dust on the basement floor; every bit of oil is utilized. And it's economical. You owe it to yourself to investigate!
